THE TRANSMUTING POWER OF COLOR AND SOUND by Marcel Vogel

Matter is held together by a series of opposing forces. When these forces are in a state of neutrality, the vibrational activity is at a minimum. When we expand our mind and go into matter itself we realize that matter essentially is empty space held together by vibrating forces and what constitutes matter is a minute core we call the nucleus of an atom which is compensated and balanced by a series of negative forces spinning around this core. The outer forces we speak of as electrons (having a negative charge) and the inner force we speak of as protons (having a positive charge). Within the nucleus is also a force which has no charge which we call neutrons.

For, as we go deeper into the study of the atom, we take an atom and start to spin it in one direction and then in another, the act of spinning this atom aligns the fields (the electronic charges around the atom) and these start to associate together and radiate transversely a field, a vector, which has an attractive and repulsive action to it. In other words, this field now becomes magnetic.

This attractive and repulsive action forms a fluidic spinning material that radiates in space for a very great distance. Because normally these fields do not have return paths to them, they are like explosions taking place from the matter itself sending out bullets of fields which, in turn, are spinning either in one direction or another.

The human mind in the body of an individual can draw a charge from the activities that go on in its body and cohere this charge into a pattern and spin it with a pulsed breath to an object it wishes to address, link to or be with. Between the person doing this and the recipient of this thought-form there is no limitation of time or space. The reason for this is that the force is as yet not in the electromagnetic spectrum. It becomes electromagnetic when it meets matter. Then it is slowed down and the product of this resistance is what we call electricity and magnetism. As we draw our breath in, we draw the fields of the other body into the physical body amplifying these fields, enabling us to build a thought-form or pattern. We can hold or pulse this breath and then that breath goes into space.

The crystals that we have designed, the meditation and healing crystals made from quartz, are specifically cut and faceted to amplify the field that the mind of an individual releases in thought. This is first done by pulsed breath, holding the crystal with both the right hand and left hand, and then holding the crystal in one hand while drawing in your breath and holding the thought of love and well-being. You may also program an image into the crystal by pulsing your breath into the crystal from one to three times.

You can now detect this field with a pair of dowsing rods, a pendulum or instrumentation like the Omega 5. This remarkable linking to the crystal with your mind will dynamically reflect at a distance the state of being, the health, the effect on the body of eating, drugs, exercise, surgery or the wearing of different types of color.

One of the more dramatic teachings that we have found using the crystal in this manner is the sensitivity of an individual to color and sound - the harmonics a person will respond to in color and sound that are most conducive to his well-being. This is accomplished by placing the crystal in an Omega 5 instrument and measuring the energy within and outside of the body. A swatch of color is then placed on the thymus gland and the person breathes in and out two or three times. If the color is appropriate for that person there will be an amplification of the field; if it is not appropriate, he will experience a loss of energy.

What we have learned is that color by itself can weaken an individual; by the appropriate choice of a complimentary color, the effect can be negated and the body brought into balance and a state of wholeness. By this means we can find if we have the appropriate swatches of color the exact hue, shade or tint required to balance the body. If the emotional body is depressed, the emotion can be released by wearing the color on the body. This is equally true of sound and tonal vibrations and, what is more exciting yet, the critical vibration of sound can be found to break up a pattern causing an arthritic or painful condition of the limb. Once the tonal value is found and played to the body, the limb releases itself from this condition and becomes whole.

This is equally true of color. Color, when spun, creates a blending of the subtle bodies and brings a sense of tremendous euphoria, relaxation and piece of mind. It is critical, when doing this, that the right rhythmic rate be found that ties into pulsation and heart rate, the rhythm of the individual receiving the chromotherapy. The beauty of using the crystal as a detector is that the experimentation can be used on the crystal without effecting the body of the recipient until the perfect rate is found, and when found is then applied to the body of the person.

The crystal is a perfect witness because the vibration that is stored in the crystal reflects a harmonic within it of the subtle bodies of that person. Therefore, the concrete nature of the effect of color and sound on the body can most correctly be observed and measured: the colors that stimulate (red), colors that cool and relax (blue), colors that pacify (green) and colors that give a sense of dignity and personification of qualities to one another (royal purple).

As we said, what is true of color is equally true of sound. In our laboratory in San Jose we are studying the influence of color on matter, be it water, crystal or wine. We will report some of the results of our research in an upcoming newsletter.

EXPERIMENT NO. 68

Materials Required:

- 1 small long bottle (olive type)
- 1 sheet of construction paper
- 1 straw
- 1 needle
- scissors
- a compass
- a shoebox or small cardboard box

Cut a piece from the paper that is three inches high and make the width so that the strip will be at least one inch larger in diameter than the bottle. Glue the ends together forming a circle. Cut or punch two holes near the top edge of the paper circle for the straw to fit through snugly from side to side. Stick your needle through the straw at the center point and position it vertically. Place the bottle bottom side up and rest your construction on top with the needle the only contact with the bottle.

Without touching the sides place your hands slowly, so as not to create an air draft, on each side of your device. With your fingers slightly cupped you should begin to see the unit revolve on the pivot point. Try it with the right hand and the left hand only. Try orienting yourself around the unit from north to east, south and west with left, right or two hands.

Cut the sides out of a shoebox so that it's ends are triangulated to support the end panel. Place your unit in this box so that the ends are in an east/west direction. Observe this at rest and expose the open sides to various influences.

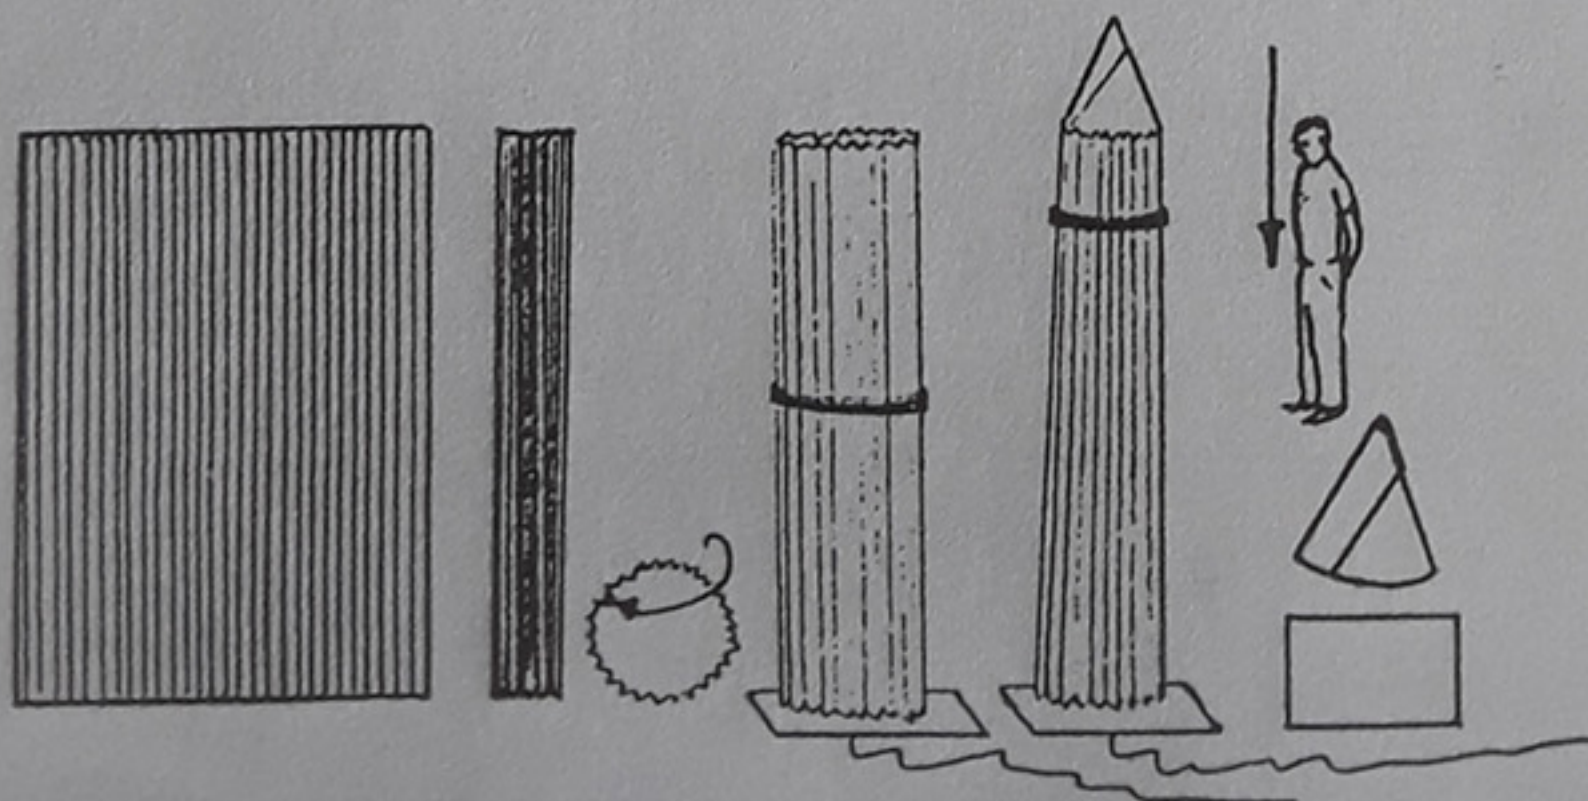

This idea was developed by John W. Keely and is known as an "etheric motor" or psycho-kinetic device.

EXPERIMENT NO. 69

Materials Required:

- 5" x 8" index cards or card stock
- white glue
- rubber band
- scissors
- red clay (ground flower pot), limestone, or potting soil (minerals)
- thread
- 1000 gauss magnet

Fold the 5" x 8" card into 1/4" accordion pleats, using a straight edge. When finished, glue the two edges together. Put the rubber band around the middle to constrict the pleats, later move it up to constrict the upper end further for applying the cone.

Glue it to a small piece of card stock base. Hold it in place while the glue is setting. When this is dry cut a 2" by 3" piece of card and glue it along the 3" side forming a cone. Place the cone on the top and glue it to your tower. You can adjust the rubber band up and down to the correct diameter for your cone and remove it when the tower is totally dry.

Mix the glue and mineral you have selected from the list above, then paint the tower until the mineral is evenly distributed over the surface. This may require several coats of the adhesive/mineral mixture. When it is dry, tape the thread to the bottom, and hang the tower with the tip down to your navel level.

Test the tower with the 1000 gauss magnet. It should be strongly attracted. Move slowly around the tower, stand six inches or more from it, practice breathing and thinking to affect the aura sensor. Have others come into the field and disrupt the energy. How far away before it happens and do different people have different fields? Keep records of these experiments and send us your results.

BOOKS

JOURNEY INTO THE WORLD OF METAPHYSICS, Vol. I, Dr. Joseph S. Chiappalone, The Centre of Knowledge and Supremacy, P.O. Box 369, Nunawading, Victoria, 3131, Australia.

This book is a search for reality. It is a discussion of reincarnation, karma, and entities which invade human consciousness. When we put ourselves, by chemical means, into a state of altered consciousness, we open ourselves to invasion by other forces which many times, are elemental in nature and can possess our body. When we come back into our body, there is a battle to take possession again of this form we call our physical body. We have seen this in people who drink and suddenly change their state of being, their personality, and become an entirely different person. The alcohol, in excess, separates the regulating mechanism operating in and around your body. It allows, because of this separation, other forces to come in, not of your choosing. Under these circumstances, the situation is described as an evil takeover and, at times, as an evil walk-in.

Programming of the body can also take place by both positive and negative thought-forms. These thought-forms, in turn, operate on the body independent of our higher self. If we choose, we develop within ourselves the desire to manipulate and control people. We build within ourselves accordingly, a pattern of action which brings about this manipulation and control. By our devious actions, we feed this body and become possessed by that form which we have created with our minds. That which purifies the physical, mental, and emotional bodies from these negative patterns and forms is love, because love coheres matter in a form that is most appropriate for its function.

This book is tough reading, to the point, and highly recommended.

KYBERNETICS OF MIND AND BRAIN, by D. Stanley-Jones, Charles C. Thomas Publisher, 301-327 East Lawrence Ave., Springfield, IL.

This work is an excellent companion to Dr. Chiappalone's book. We are talking about the living chemistry of the brain and how the mind relates to the brain in objective behavior, communication and control. The author states that the nervous system is a coherent network of reflex arcs acting upon each other to modify the relationship between the incoming information and the outgoing command. Emotion maintains mental homeostasis and is accompanied by the same body mechanisms that maintain thermostasis.

The basic principle involved in Kybernetics is negative feedback. Energy released by parts of a system returns to regulate and control further energy release by the system. Such negative feedback allows the internal environment to have a constancy of control, balance, heart regulation, cardiovascular control, and other brain activities.

The author bases his assumptions based on his statement that the brain is the organ of mind and that mind is a processes going on within the tissues of the brain. He ignores the philosophical process of mind and matter, and treats these arguments as being unreal. In this I do not agree. Kybernetics is the study of relations. It provides only that certain things are related and the pattern of positive and negative feedback can be profitably subjected to Kybernetic analysis.

It is interesting that when we finish reading this book we are still left with the nagging question, "What initiates and motivates all of the actions we talk of as the functioning of the brain, such as the simple action of catching a ball?"

IN SEARCH OF THE DOUBLE HELIX,

By John Gribbin, Bantam Books, McGraw-Hill Book Co., 1221 Avenue of Americas, New York, NY 10020

This is a novel written on the search of life itself. The man writes well. He puts his science and mathematics together properly, in a way that anyone can read. Taken in perspective with the first two books reviewed, you can begin to synthesize in your mind that there is something beyond matter itself, which is the regulator of matter. This is the soul, the life principle itself. The activity of the soul in matter can be interfered with. Djwahl Kuhl, in his book on esoteric healing, speaks of disease being the inhibition of the functioning of the soul in matter. That which can inhibit matter is a negative thought-form, a put-down of self, a feeling of lack of worth. We have, in living on this earth plane, a primary responsibility to know ourselves, and from this knowledge, come to that moment in time when the power of love infuses this matter we call our body. When this takes place, we are released from time and become one with the All. This is Heaven. Heaven is achieved when we have released all of the limitations we have imposed on our body, mind and spirit. We have come home.

THE FIRE GOSPEL, ESSAYS AND TALKS ON SPIRITUAL BAPTISM, by Da Free John, The Dawn Horse Press, Clearlake, CA.

This is a group of essays dictated by Da Free John. It covers surrender, the seven stages of eternal life, and the blissful current of happiness.

When read with the gospel of St. John the Apostle, this book brings together an actualization of force that coheres the body, the mind and the spirit to become one with the all.

Those who awaken through free spiritual baptism will presently become happy. They are enlivened and liberated emotionally by the spirit; they are liberated in their minds. They become blissful, self-reliant and manifest this as love, happiness, joyous feelings and freedom. The life breath that sustains man is also the light that can show him the way to the darkness and blindness of the world. That light has always shone in the world and is even now in the body and mind of man, if he has the willingness and joy to unfold and let that light shine forth.

JNANESHVARI, Vol. I and Vol. II, translated by V. G. Pradhan, edited by H. M. Lambert, published by Allen and Unwin, Inc., Boston, MA.

P. 6

A verse reads, "Veiled by my creative power, I am not revealed to all. This bewildering world knows me not, the unborn, the unchanging. For those who have not, for those who have been blinded by the veil of illusion, from those have failed to perceive me in the full light of day."

It is so beautiful, and another verse. "What is there that is not touched by the wing? Is there nothing that is not touched by space? Is there anything that is not prevailed by the universe?"

This is speaking of God himself. As you go through his book, which is a song-sermon translated from the sanskrit, your heart is lifted up, your mind is stimulated, and the product of this is the expansion of consciousness. We feel the presence of the Divine mind in everything around us. That is the benefit of reading material of this form and calibre. That is why I recommend this to your attention, to know and to love God in a deeper, and more meaningful way.

THE POWER OF COLOR AND STONES: HOW TO UNDERSTAND THE WORLD

AROUND YOU, (an Edgar Cayce Learn-at-Home Course.) A.R.E., 67th St. and Atlantic Ave., P.O. Box 595, Virginia Beach, VA 23451.

This is a wonderful binder prepared by the A.R.E. foundation. There are two booklets, one by Edgar Cayce, Auras, and one by Betty Wood, The Healing Power of Color. This is very nice home study material. It has a paint kit and a set of stones for home study, an audio tape, worksheets, and literature on color and stones.

Edgar Cayce suggested amethyst be worn above the neck as part of your jewelry to control temperament. It gives personal experiments with color on how to find your color note, how to find the stones that have the most profound effect on you. This book is for children, as well as adults. It can give you a very good inventory of your color ranking and what colors are best suited for you. This is a fun book and one that can help you in time to help others from your experience. If you get the book, communicate with us on what you discover in working with this material. M.V.

THE PLANTING OF CRYSTALS

By Inga Madsen and Dick Ball

People have been placing crystals in sacred geometric circles in order to raise the vibration level of an area. A large crystal is placed on top of a pyramid in the center of a ring of crystals. Crystals planted in circles appear to have an outward boundary of energy dependent on the number of crystals and their angle of geometric separation.

Surrounding the capstone, four smaller crystals are placed in the corners. Outside of this square is a circle of two to five miles containing six crystals set sixty degrees apart and outside of that, another circle of three to ten miles in diameter with twelve crystals, set thirty degrees apart.

People who are aware of the crystal circles charge them every morning and night with loving energy. There are many people who understand how to use crystals in this manner and yet they don't find the time to clear their own neighborhood. It would not take any more time than doing a good housecleaning on your dwelling.

The use of a model, where you visualize planting crystals at the four corners of a particular building and later at home make a "bakers clay" model with little crystals planted as visualized.

Marcel suggested, in one of the first newsletters, the experiment about taking three identical leaves and placing them so that one is loved, one is treated with anger and one is ignored. It was the ignored leaf that shrivelled up first. It is important to pay attention to the land, so that it will flourish. Most of us are too busy and ignore the land. Chowchow Imamoto in her article on Ireland indicated that after crystals were planted people seemed to be drawn to till fallow land. When you project your love to a person, animal, plant or land and believe you are assisting in the healing, you can allow yourself to heal as well.

Rosenthal, a famous European educator, fostered a theory of positive expectations. If you treat a child as an exceptional person, he will tend to be exceptional. Positive expectations, love, and consideration heal all things.

So often we do not use the knowledge we have gained until we are forced to pay attention. Wake up and pay attention. These are crucial times. Man is not the only feeling entity on earth. The animals, plants and the earth itself respond to love and to love charged crystals.

THINGS TO PONDER by Dick Ball

Identical twins, who have been separated since birth, often gave their children and animals the same names. They tend to have the same type of work, marry women with the same name and buy the same products. Genetic duplication, many psychologists say, is the reason for these choices. However, they rarely acknowledge the consistent reports of telepathic communication between identical and, to a lesser extent, fraternal twins.

When I am in tune with another human, we often telepath, pick up each others thoughts. In several business start-ups my partners and I were "in-tune" in the early stages. Marcel has demonstrated that even a plant responds to human thought, and at as remote a distance as from Bulgaria to San Jose.

These energies are being studied at P.R.I. because they are real. Telepathy is one aspect of the power of thought.

THE EARTH AS A CRYSTAL by Bob Crane

At P.R.I. we have studied the changes of circulating water, wine, and juices around quartz crystals. In most cases, the flavor, taste, and body of these substances have been improved.

In a much more subjective vein, we have also studied the healing effects of these crystals. Crystals are able to act upon living things because they have similar internal structures to living organisms. The crystals grow and develop to maturity like living things. A form of life we do not fully understand, crystal is a living thing.

Recently the concept of Gaea, the earth as a living thing, has become popular. It is felt that the earth lives and in time will cleanse itself of the impurities that have accumulated in the form of air and water pollution.

The mantle of the earth, which is 1200 miles thick, is composed of crystallized silica. This crystal has a large number of mineral impurities within its structure, and if it were brought to the surface and examined, it would look like obsidian.

The earth is a large crystal ball with a central core, either hollow, as some people say, or filled with heavy metals such as iron, as most earth scientists say. In any case, the earth's crystalline mantle, in conjunction with its core, produces the earth's gravitational field. It will be discovered someday that gravity is not an inherent property of matter, but must be carefully developed within crystalline groups of atoms that have a spherical or circular geometry.

The space ships that visit us from other places all have a cylindrical or circular shape, such as the flat disks that are so often reported. They develop internal gravitational fields that are much stronger than the earth's, and, in a concept that is difficult to understand, pull their center of earth gravity (known as their center of mass), toward their own center of gravity and move through space without any apparent inertia; that is, no one flies around the cabin during flight.

Our "Spaceship Earth" produces its low level of gravity in the same manner as these spacecraft. The very solid, but fragile mantle of obsidian is charged to high levels by the surge of electrons that move out from the very hot core. These electrons charge the crystal with voltage, and this in turn produces a vibration within the crystal that is a gravitational force field.

This also occurs when any healing crystal is charged by a person's own electronic energy. At times, the person may even feel the strength of this gravitational force field. It is this force field which brings the body back into alignment by realigning the cells' DNA strands. This is the essence of a crystal healing.

As we have developed into a strong and active industrial society in the past 125 years, we have ignored the needs of our crystal, the earth, and a great many internal stresses have built up within it.

We shall discuss some of these stresses and what we, as people of the earth, need to do about them if we are to make a smooth transition into the twenty-first century, in the next issue of the newsletter.

HOW WONDERFULLY SIMPLE - Part II by Arlene McGinity

Except as a child, the first time I can remember feeling safe enough to deliberately open to my Higher Self, and the information it had to offer, was during a holistic health seminar at the University of California, Davis. This was the beginning.

It was amazing how quickly life seemed to become more joyful and fulfilling. I began to read everything I could find about metaphysics and higher consciousness. Sometimes I would be reading four or five books simultaneously - one in every room in the house. At first I was not especially selective. I just wanted to gather information as quickly as possible! Some of the books were written with terminology and a vocabulary I didn't understand, so I kept a dictionary handy. When "Webster's" was inadequate, I searched out a couple of metaphysical dictionaries. Finally, because I wanted a deeper understanding of what I was reading and experiencing, I realized I needed a teacher.

Perhaps at this point I should "back track" to explain that several months prior to my looking for a teacher, my father had come to visit us for a few weeks. My parents had divorced when I was sixteen, and my father had moved to Indiana. By the time he returned to California to stay with us that August, it had been many years since we had spent much time together. During the interim he had developed a heart condition which resulted in his having a "near death experience." My father described this experience to us in detail and explained how, because of it he had begun to seriously study metaphysics. He bought my husband and me several books he thought were worthwhile, and we did a lot of talking. The following February, my father became ill again and a few days after I got to Indianapolis to be with him, he made his transition.

On a Saturday morning about three weeks later, I was in my kitchen preparing breakfast. It was a grey, dreary morning so the lights were on in the kitchen and the adjoining utility room, the door to which was open. As we sat down to breakfast the lights in the utility room started blinking. My oldest son, who was fourteen at the time, asked in an annoyed voice, "What is that?" I answered that maybe a storm was coming and asked him to turn the light switch off. When he turned the switch off, the lights blinked back on and continued to go off and on, regardless of what we did to the switch. There was no storm and the other lights in the house seemed all right. The curious thing was that during his visit, my father, who enjoyed fixing things, had replaced the light fixtures in the utility room for us. They had been working perfectly for the last six months, but now suddenly there was something wrong with them.

Because I was concerned about a fire hazard, I called an electrician to come out, despite "Saturday rates." When he checked the lights he could not find anything to fix, and while he was there they worked just fine. As he went out the door they started blinking again. I ran after him calling, "They're doing it again!" He shrugged and said he had better come back Monday to rewire everything, since he couldn't figure out what was wrong. The lights continued to blink all weekend. Monday the rewiring was done and a new light switch was installed. As before, the lights worked fine until the electrician left, then they began going on and off again. Finally, half laughing and feeling a little foolish, I said out loud, "Daddy, if that's you, I think I've got the message. You are letting us know that the things we talked about are true! Thank you, I really appreciate it, but could you please communicate in another way now? The electrician is getting awfully expensive!" With that there was a final blink and the lights have never repeated their performance - and yes, on occasion we have had other communication I believe to be from my father.

While the message is important, the phenomenon of itself is not. I use it only to illustrate what I have learned to be true over the years since this happened. When you give yourself permission to open to the possibilities, those possibilities become available. When you can be receptive, without judgements or preconceived expectations, it is as if your Higher Self (God Self) and the Universe say, "O.K., now you're ready. Let's go!"

I LOVE

is but a symbol.

The thought of man's mind...
is a fragment of attitude.

The inspiration of man's creativity...
is an incomplete vision.

The love of man's heart...
is the totality.

When these do combine in like vibration unto the soul essence of man as true knowledge put into daily action... then does man reach for the heavens...
and touch an angel.

MARCEL PRESENTS A SEMINAR IN SAN FRANCISCO by the P.R.I. Staff

For the first time, research with ground crystal powders and gemstones was demonstrated at this seminar. These powders were initially tested by placing a jar of an unidentified gemstone on the back of an individual while doing a kinesiological reading. The purpose for this reading was to indicate the powder most beneficial for relieving emotional stress. Among the powders tested were Lapis Lazuli, Carnelian, Topaz, Amethyst, Sapphire and Ruby. In other tests gemstone powders were mixed with massage oil and applied to various chakras and the individuals were then tested for various strengths and weaknesses. We do not feel we have adequate research at this time to notify the public of the results. Those wishing to obtain powders for their own research purposes may call P.R.I.

This was the first time the people in one of our seminars were able to sample wine treated with our newly developed structuring process. The process we use seems to "age" or "finish" a wine so that it reaches its maximum potential. Evidence of the difference in the two wines processed was shown by the audience who finished the treated wine samples, but left much of the untreated samples.

EDITORS NOTE: Sycamore Creek Winery is having four Open House dates to present their exceptional new wines. You are invited to taste treated wines on Saturday and Sunday, May 14th, 15th, 21st and 22nd. Their address is 12775 Uvas Road, Morgan Hill, CA 95037, 408/779-4738.

Judy Mingo & Jenet Grover of the P.R.I. Staff, San Jose, CA 408/279-2291

THANK YOU FOR YOUR GENEROUS SUPPORT AND DONATIONS. The P.R.I. research laboratory has been supported solely by Marcel's lectures, and by the sales of crystals, the new medallion, newsletter, audio and video tapes. The more private funding, the more time Marcel will have to supervise and perform research in the lab. Remember, P.R.I. is a non-profit corporation which provides research and education to aid mankind. Won't you help us to help you!.
